

The true History of

s. Ye plead much, we perceive, to have the Ministers; and tell us, that what concerns should be concluded by the advice of the together mislike your purpose: For the greater selves, the greater is our contentment. But that matters proponed by us of that nature are, may not without such a general Concorritie. This were a miskenning of our Places, of that innate power, which we have by our which we have place to dispose of things external think them to be convenient and profitable, among our Subjects. Therefore let it be your and discreet Perswasions, to induce them to these things, as in dutie both to God and do not think, that we will be satisfied with negotiations; and we know not what other shifts we will content ourselves with nothing, but aptation of these Articles, in the form by us the past; considering both the Lawfulness, & them, for the better furthering of Pietie & Re- should rather have becomeed you to have begged things of Us, then that we should thus need to them upon you. These matters indeed contain Charge chiefly. Neither would we have

After prayer, he notified to the Assembly, ordinar Clerk, had dimitred his Office, in fa lands. He commended him as a man qualifi die to further Ministers in their actions before t without formal election, or voting, after he h missioners, some Noblemen, Bishops, and so was called in, and his oath taken to be faithful of his Office. Then the Brethren of the Mini in their Commissions, before the sitting down o So the names of the Commissioners were never that they might be known every one to anothe Articles, in the end of the Assembly; and the of them had not lawful Commission.

TH E many Imperfections of our common Vocabulary so generally complain'd of by Masters and Scholars, and the unfitness, for our purpose, of all those done abroad, have been the occasion of publishing this Manual, which is design'd to furnish our Youth with a reasonable stock of Vocables, reduc'd to such natural order, as at once may help the Memory and improve the Understanding.

Tho this Vocabulary be as copious as any extant, it gives not a full enumeration of every thing in Nature and Art, nor reckons up all the particulars may be ranked under any one Head (such great Variety cannot be comprehended in so narrow a compass) but it contains a competent Collection of the Substantive Nouns, that are most obvious to our Minds and Senses, and like to be the subject of discourse; These are put in the most proper terms in both Languages: and because several English words are not understood by Children, and the general-

ty of People, the Scottish names are join'd to as many of them as seem'd to need explanation.
The Latine is taken from the most approved Authors upon the several Subjects, as will appear to such as have opportunity and inclination to try.

But it is to be observ'd, that many words peculiar to Christianity, the names of Five Arms, and other things unknown to the Old Romans, are signified by such Latine words, as are commonly receiv'd, and us'd by Modern Writers.
Some things proper to our Nation are allowed place here, clothed in such a Latine dress (for want of better) as can only plead Prescripti- on in our Schools. And, upon the Authority of the best Criticks, the English and Latine names of some Coins &c. are so adjusted, that the things signified by them in each Language come nearer, and answer one another better than those ordinarily used.

The Accidents (or things to be observ'd) of Substantive Nouns, in order to their right Construction and Pronunciation, are Gender, Declination and Quantity, which are carefully marked throughout the whole. The Gender is known by observing the Rules of Significa- tion and Termination, set down in the most plain and easie method, and fitted to the meanest capacity; Whatever word is excepted from or not reducible to these, has a letter added shewing it's Gender. The Declination is discover'd by the Genitive Case, which is never omitted when there is any hazard of mistake.

The Quantity (so far as is requisite to the right Pronunciation) is set over each word, that falls not under the General Rules of Prosodie; these are also prefixt for the benefit of Young Scholars: The careful observation of all which, will render many crabbed Rules of Grammar very easie.

If any shall happen to quarrel the length of this Work, as being too great a task for Children; Let them consider, That it can be made as short as they please, by enjoining such small portions in any part of it, as they think fit, and passing by what they judge less needful: But it's hop'd; that it may be profitable, to all such as desire to speak or understand Latine, not only while they are Children at Schools, but even when they come to Age: And there are Many of opinion, that it may be worth it's price, to most Persons of both Sexes, who can read or write, were it only to acquaint them with so much of Nature so methodically class'd, and teach them to spell so many words of the English Language, tho it had not the addition of the Latine.

Teachers will certainly see it improper, to oblige their Scholars to mandate all these Vocables, in the precise order in which they are digested; and therefore will readily order the Heads

Heads, that are like to be soonest useful, or fute best with the humour of Boyes, or circumstances of the places in which they live, to be first read, and leave others to be learn'd afterward.

The advice and assistance of several Learned Men, who revis'd this Piece, has contributed to make it somewhat correct; and if it serve the end for which it is design'd, and meet with favourable entertainment, it may chance to get further Improvement.
